

Recommended Usage

An initial dosage of 1-2 capsules of Diavan 1000 per day with meals is recommended for the first two days. If no discomforts are experienced, users may increase their intake slowly to 9 capsules per day. Upon completion of the first bottle, switching to Diavan 3000 is recommended. As Diavan 3000 is 3 times the strength of Diavan 1000, intake can be reduced to 3 to 4 capsules per day. Some users of Diavan have reported increasing their intake beyond recommended levels under the supervision of a health practitioner.

How will I know Diavan is working for me?

An increased level of energy and euphoria after approximately three weeks of taking Diavan. A more certain test in determining if the product is working for you is to retain a constant level of Diavan intake while reducing your level of insulin intake slightly. If the blood sugar level readings remain constant, then Diavan has created a "buffer zone" and is assisting in retaining a safe blood sugar level. Some users have even reported the ability to continue to lower their insulin intake by this method under the supervision of a medical professional.

It is suggested that you discuss your use of Diavan with your physician or health care practitioner.

Production & Quality Control

Diavan is produced in US government inspected plants and only top quality raw materials are used from leading suppliers. Regular testing is conducted to ensure quality, purity and authenticity of all ingredients used. Feedback from regular users is reviewed so that we may improve the product if necessary. Your feedback and inquiries are important and we look forward to hearing from you.
